STATE OF WISCONSIN.

A PROCLAMATION

BY THE GOVERNOR.

In conformity with law, I, William D. Hoard, Governor of the State of Wisconsin, do designate

Wednesday, April 30th Next, as Arbor Day, and recommend that all public schools and colleges of the state observe the same by suitable exercises, "having for their object the imparting of knowledge of horticulture, in the department known as arboriculture, and the adornment of schools and public grounds."

It testimony whereof, I have hereunto set my hand, and caused the great seal of the state of Wisconsin to be affixed. Done at the capitol, in the city of Madison, this 15th day of March, A. D. 1890.

WILLIAM D. HOARD.

By the Governor: HENRY G. TISDALE, Secretary of State.

SOME ELOQUENT FIGURES.

Those of the Gazette readers who belong to the third party and think there is nothing but damnation and crime in high license, should be sober-minded enough to read some figures bearing on the operation of high license in Pennsylvania. There is a good deal of eloquence in these figures because they preach a powerful sermon for the high license law of that state.

There is an organization in Philadelphia called the Law and Order society. The object of the society is to see that the high license law is enforced. This society held a meeting the other day to consider what had been done and what there was still to do. It was shown that high license had worked wonders in Philadelphia. Here are some figures that show a notable reformation in that city, and they are worth repeating in the Gazette. The high license law went into effect on the first Monday of June, 1888, so this fact must be borne in mind:

Total commitments for intoxication in 1887-88, 13,300; in 1888-89, 6,889; in 1889-90, 7,283 for 1889. Then again, the Monday morning commitments in Philadelphia for Sunday intoxication speak with wonderful force, and eloquence. The figures for these commitments cover the last two years of low license, and the first two years of high license, now mark the sharp decrease:

June 1, 1887, to March 1, 1888, 12,602; June 1, 1888, to March 1, 1889, 6,889; June 1, 1889, to March 1, 1890, 14,277.

Here are some more interesting facts which merit special attention.

The number of commitments for intoxication was 13,300 for the year previous to the adoption of the high license law, and for the two years under the new law they were only 6,889 for 1888, and 7,283 for 1889. Then again, the Monday morning commitments in Philadelphia for Sunday intoxication speak with wonderful force, and eloquence. The figures for these commitments cover the last two years of low license, and the first two years of high license, now mark the sharp decrease:

June 1, 1887, to March 1, 1888, 12,602; June 1, 1888, to March 1, 1889, 6,889; June 1, 1889, to March 1, 1890, 14,277.

It will be seen from these figures that high license in Philadelphia has been conducive to sobriety, good order, and Sunday observance. This high license law was the best thing at hand for temperance reformers, for prohibition was out of the question.

THE IRISH AND THE BENNETT LAW.

A dispatch from Madison says that many Catholics are heartily supporting the Bennett law, and that daily Governor Hoard is receiving congratulations from democrats for his firm purpose in standing by the law, and in the dispatch of Friday are these two sentiments: "A young Irishman and Catholic, a lawyer of exceptional ability, and a democrat as well, called to-day upon Governor Hoard and gave hearty expressions of commendation of his position on the Bennett law. He will express his ideas, on the law, which are original, in a letter for publication."

A prominent Irish Catholic priest has written the following letter to the governor:

DEAR SIR:—I permit me to congratulate you on your worthy co-workers on the noble and truly American stand you have taken on the Bennett law. The prayers and best wishes of all true Americans of every creed are with you in your undertaking. I cannot see how any bishop, priest or minister who is a true American and has the best interests of America at heart, as well as those under their jurisdiction, can be so forgetful of his duty to the country as to try to supplant the language of his adopted country with one he has abjured. I hold that it is the duty of all men, whose homes and interests are in this country, to foster and protect that language which has been to them the only true exponent of liberty they ever knew.

It will seem from these extracts from the Madison dispatch that when the Bennett law is clearly understood the more popular it becomes among those whose first thought was to oppose it. They begin to see that no one can oppose the law without putting himself on record as opposing the instruction in English of children of foreign born parents, and they do not want to be placed in this un-American position.

A few days ago the Atlanta Constitution, with malice aforethought and with the criminal intent to deceive, printed the following:

The Rev. Mr. Souther of the Jersey City Tabernacle, speaking of a country in his state says: "I was born and bred in heathen lands, and have witnessed all forms of human depravity, but I must confess I never saw such rank heathenism as has been revealed in Hudson county during the last few years."

Barbarism and heathenism in the west and north, admitted by their own press and pulpit! So the record reads. And yet some of the editors and preachers who testify to these things are shedding tears over what they call southern barbarism!

If the Constitution had been honest, which it rarely is in politics, it would have said that Mr. Souther referred to the democratic frauds practiced in Jersey City and Hudson county last fall. That was the "rank heathenism" the election frauds he criticized, and he had reason to

BILL FOR RELIEF OF VETERANS PASSED BY THE HOUSE.

Sharp Debate on the Measure Before the Final Vote—Other News from the Capital.

WASHINGTON, March 22.—In the House the pension appropriation bill was discussed. Mr. Spink, in speaking of the Republican party's pledges to the soldiers, said that party would have to face the music. The Democrats intended to make them do so. They intended to do it by the line of the pension service bill. The Democrats did not intend that the Republicans should mask themselves as the special friends of the veterans. The Democratic party had forced the pension rolls from $28,000,000 up to $100,000,000, and yet the Republicans went on the stump and told the people that they were the friends of the men who saved the Union.

The battlefield of the last election had been in Indiana, and his old friend and comrade Corporal Tanner had marched out like a gallant veteran and advocated the platform of his party. The pledges Corporal Tanner had made had been made at the suggestion of President Harrison. After the pledges had been made and Indiana had been carried for the Republicans Corporal Tanner had started out to fulfill these pledges.

There was a gallant soldier who had left both his legs on the battlefield. He had been rewarded by the Republican party for political services and yet he had been obliged to resign his office. Why? Because he had done what, at the suggestion of President Harrison, he had promised to do. That was the way the Republican party rewarded the veterans.

Mr. Morrow of California said the trouble with Commissioner Tanner was that when he came into office he found abuses existing in the machinery of the bureau. The fault with Mr. Tanner was that he did not obey the recommendations of the Secretary of the Interior.

Mr. Grosvenor of Ohio said the gentleman from New York (Mr. Spink) had declared that the Democratic party had run up the appropriations for pensions from $28,000,000 to $100,000,000. There was not a dollar of that money that had been appropriated under any general pension bill ever passed by the Democratic party or ever signed by a Democratic President, except that increasing the pension of dollars. With this exception, every dollar of appropriations was made by the patriotism of the Republican party and its love for the soldier.

Referring to President Cleveland's veto of the dependent pension bill, he said that when Mr. Cleveland was re-nominated no man had shouted louder in his behalf than had the gentleman from Indiana (Mr. Bynum). And yet Grover Cleveland, who had hurled his veto in the faces of the soldiers, was the most popular Democrat in the United States, and three years hence would drag the Democratic party at his car wheels.

The Democrats were not to be credited with any of the pension legislation of the country, but they were to be credited with the fact that to-day there were 20,000 Union soldiers in the poor-house who would have been comfortable under the bill which President Cleveland had vetoed.

Mr. Tarsney of Missouri inquired whether the Republicans intended to pass the dependent pension bill vetoed by Mr. Cleveland.

Mr. Grosvenor replied that they did not. They would pass a pension bill—a bill which would not contain the pauper feature. The Republican would have nothing to do with the pauper pension bill.

Mr. Spink suggested that a Democratic congress had passed the arrears bill and the bill increasing the pension of widows from $8 to $12 a month. The bill which President Cleveland had vetoed had been an insult to the veterans of the country.

After further debate the bill was passed.

The bill for the retirement of Gen. Fremont with the rank of major-general was passed.

On motion of Mr. Robertson of Louisiana a bill was passed appropriating $25,000 to enable the secretary of war to purchase 2,500 tents for the use of the people driven from their homes by the floods now prevailing in Arkansas, Mississippi, and Louisiana.

The Senate.

WASHINGTON, March 22.—In the Senate Mr. Sherman's bill to declare unlawful trusts and combinations in restraint of trade and production was taken up. Senator Vest attacked the bill as unconstitutional, and said the remedy for trusts lay in the abandonment of the Republican policy of high protection.

He said the protective tariff and the trusts were as closely related as the lines, to play between San Francisco and Valparaiso and intermediate points.

The subsidy recommended is 30 cents a ton per 1,000 miles, which is to be distributed among the subscribing nations according to tonnage.

The committee on telegraphic communication recommended government aid on a similar basis to a company to connect the principal ports on the Pacific coast by means of a submarine cable extending from San Francisco to Valparaiso and touching at the principal intervening ports.

RANDOM WANDERINGS.

Little Bits of Street Gossip Picked Up by the Gazette News Gatherer.

AN ILLUSTRATION OF THE BENEFITS OF ADVERTISING.

Various Other Little Items Picked Up in Wandering Around the Bower City.

"Talk about absent minded people," said a man whose place of business is located on a corner of a busy business street, "I saw a young lady the other day who was dressed very fashionably, some over the cross-walk in front of my store. The street was muddy and when she lightly lifted up her skirt I saw that on one foot was a dainty house slipper while the other was clad in a patent leather shoe with a gutter of the same material as her dress over it. She also noticed it herself, and when she met another girl she said, 'That John had called to ask her to go to the theater just as she was changing her shoes and she had started out without tunking.'"

"That's nothing," said another gentleman who makes the aforementioned store his headquarters a good deal of the time, "I saw a man who was so absent minded that he put his pants on twice before, to enable him to reach his hip pocket more easily."

"I don't believe that," said the proprietor, "even if a deacon of the church does say so."

"Anybody can see that," said a third, "as he had a break for the back door."

The proprietor had an epileptic fit while the balance of the crowd went out and had "something."

A rather hardened first ward boy went over to a neighbor's yard one day last week and helped himself from a peck basket full of apples that were setting on the porch. The lady of the house saw him and hastened to inquire into the matter. She called the boy over and said, "Johnny don't you know that it is wrong to steal?" Johnny looked a little ashamed. "Don't you know," said the lady, "that the bible says 'Thou shalt not steal'?" The boy who evidently went to Sunday school once in a long time, brightened up and said, "Don't say so to that 'The Lord helps those who help themselves.' Argument was deferred."

"What do you think I heard this morning?" said a prominent druggist, in whose store the wanderer was in the habit of stopping. "It startled me, a good deal I can tell you." "What was it?" enquired the scribe, who is always looking for an item. "The seven o'clock whistle," wickedly remarked the druggist, while the bottles jingled together and a mustard plaster drew the whiskers off of a hair restorative advertisement.

The Lime Kill Club were called together the other night by an edict of the president, stating that the Gazette had just published a problem concerning a cow that was a "twister."

If there is any one thing on earth that the Lime Kill Club thoroughly understand, it is live stock—especially cows. The meeting was held to order by the president, and the business stated. The proprietor of the place where the meeting was held brought a ream of wrapping paper and a box of lead pencils and the club started in. A resident of the third ward who was going home at midnight says that the gas was still burning and that there was a great commotion going on inside. Their deliberations have not yet been made public but it indicates that to anything they must have been barrel staves instead of lead pencils before the thing was settled.

"I understand Secretary Heimstret is trying to find a couple to get married at the fair this fall," said Mr. D. P. Smith, of the firm of Smith & Gateley. "If that is true I will give them half a ton of coal to keep warm." "I will give them a set of our best silver spoons," said Wil. Sayles, one of the reliable jewelers of A. F. Hall & Co. "I will add one of our best comfortable," chimed in J. M. Bostwick, of J. M. Bostwick & Sons, dry goods merchants.

A certain young professional man decided a few evenings ago that he go and see his best girl, true to the saying: "In the spring time young folks turn to thoughts of love." He accordingly would put on his best clothes and walked up to the second ward. He had just settled himself comfortably in the best chair in the house, when a messenger arrived and wanted a surgical instrument from the aforementioned professional man's case of surgical instruments. The professional man dispatched the messenger to his office to get the case and the instrument. The messenger (who must have been bribed by some one) of course made it a point not to know what the instrument in question was. So he took case and all up to the house when the professional man was listening to a piano solo. He knocked at the door and was answered by the young lady who invited him in. The boy handed her the instrument case and said he would rather wait outside. When the young lady turned her back he made tracks. The young lady handed the case to the professional man and he opened it to get the instrument. Imagine his consternation, when a tall grown shaggy rooster jumped out and perched on a chair covered with a cloth. What became of the chicken is not yet known, but it is said that he is being still fed to take the prize at the Rock county fair. It is also said that the victim of the joke rose up in his wrath and embraced the messenger (around the throat) when he caught him.

That story was something like the one where the young man said so late that the clock covered the face with its hands in discouragement. Suddenly a grating noise was heard and the young man jumped up in alarm and asked if there were burglars. "Oh no," said the young lady, "it's only the clock grinding off for breakfast." That was enough for the young man. They never speak now as they pass by.

"Advertising is what makes the world go round," said Mr. J. M. Steele, of the "Magnet." We advertise quite extensively. Our store is known all over the city. Why, the other day a first ward boy came in and wanted a box of "Magnet" Ointment. I directed him to a drug store, and he said that he thought we surely would have Magnet Ointment. So much for a name. I think P. T. Barnum was right when he said that 'Advertising is like courting a widow, it can't be overdone.'"

THAT COW PROBLEM.

Torgor Overallson Gives the Correct Answer—Three Dollars.

The "cow problem," published in the Gazette last Tuesday has had its run, and has furnished considerable amusement for old and young. The problem reads:

"Ole Olson has a cow for which he paid $32. He sells the cow to John Brown for $35. Brown becoming sick of his bargain sells her back to Olson the same day for $30. How much has Olson made by the transaction?"

Of the many solutions Torgor Overallson's comes into play better than any other and is here given as the correct answer. He sends his answer as follows:—

"Adunno, men den at tink da be purty tuff job to make money da way. Ole be purty greev fool to pay tuff to dollar for kow. A kan buy kow on sakeson for twenty dollar on tims—six percent interes. A gess no. Al dunnno, men den at tank George —, no si dunnno Ole sin kow make mule money to sell his kow to John Brown. John Brown purty high kiker jes no si tell ja.
